Spectator Notes-

The art lovers are evidently in town! The marine show at the Carmel Art Gallery was scheduled to be hung for two weeks. Now, after five days, half the paintings have been sold and the glaring blank spaces can't be filled by Artist Doris Baker on short order.

Derek Rayne, just returned from Hawaii, where he was top judge in a couple of shows, got a couple of royal welcomes. Mayor C. K. Wilson of Honolulu first greeted him formally when he and his wife stepped off the plane. Later, at Hilo, he was again greeted by the mayor of the city and presented with a Key to Hilo.

Earl and Marion Matthiessen are leaving tomorrow for a three-weeks vacation in Mexico. After returning here for a short time, they and their two daughters, Susan and Karen, will move to Woodside, where Earl will be engaged in the real estate business.

Ward Carr of San Francisco, who runs an art shop on Fillmore street near the Clay theatre in S.F., dropped around this week. He's interested in giving free gallery space to Carmel artists interested in showing their wares in the big city. No strings...he just has to like the work.

War broke out at Fort Ord this week, when Agressita fell to the U.S. Occupation forces. The U.S. forces rapidly took over the principal cities of Ciscax and Mentox and re-established law and order, and the economy of the liberated nations... after which they all called it quits, finished up their two week reservist training, and went back to being teachers, merchants, butchers, etc., in such unmythical places as Boise, Oakland, and Wenatchee.

A completely unimaginary 500 housing units were got under way at the Fort last week. The project will cover 100 acres between Gigling and the North-South Road at Ord.

Monterey's Fishermen's Festival (the Feast of Santa Rosalia), scheduled for September 6, 7, 8 and 9, is all lined up. There will be a Saturday fireworks display, street dancing, a Grand Ball; a Sunday open air Mass, with the blessing of the sardine fleet, and topping it all a fine big parade on Sunday afternoon. S. F. B. Morse is honorary chairman of the event. John and Pat Cunningham of Carmel will handle decorations.

Speaking of the Cunninghams, Pat will have a show at the San Francisco Palace of the Legion of Honor, opening on the 1st of October, to run throughout the month. She is planning a one-man Carmel Art Association show to open Sept. 1st to run through the 15th...Needless to say, she's a mighty busy woman these days. The paintings will be the cream of Pat's work from her recent trip to Paris and Northern France.

In case you've been feeling a little fuzzy lately, we have an explanation. THIS is National Wool Week!

Village WeekCITY PARKING LOT TO GO BEFORE VOTERS

A partial solution to Carmel's long-standing traffic and parking problems will be put before the voters this fall. They will be asked to vote "yes" or "no" on a $117,000 bond issue to buy a parking lot.

The lot, which will take about 140 cars, is the M. J. Murphy Company's lumber yard at the corner of Ocean and Junipero. This land was chosen by a study committee which also considered buying three or four smaller lots scattered throughout the business district. The later plan was turned down when the figures showed that each parking stall would cost twice as much if the smaller lots were used.

The committee which worked out the plan was composed of the City Council, the five-man traffic committee of the Carmel Business Association, and five private citizens.

CARMEL FOUNDATION PLAN FOR CENTER OPPOSED

The Carmel Foundation's plan for a recreation center for Carmel's older citizens ran into protests at the Planning Commission hearing this week. The Foundation has requested a use permit to operate a recreation center on Lincoln between 8th and 9th, which is in the residential district.

Five propertyowners in the area protested on the grounds that the activity would lower property values and create traffic and parking problems.

AN ARTIST who drew many interested spectators was Alex Weygars of Carmel Valley. One of the "working artists" at the State Fair, Weygars is shown, at work on a biblical statue, "The Flood," which will be completed and exhibited at next year's Fair.

Foundation officers explained to the commission that the house would be used as a place where people over 65 could gather to read, play cards or chess, or just sit and talk. It was pointed out that these activities would not tend to disturb the neighbors and that generally older people would not drive automobiles to the center.

The Commission held the matter over until next Wednesday when it will rule on the application.

Other action by the Commission included:

- Approval of the construction of a studio building in the Carl Cherry Foundation block at the intersection of 4th and Santa Rita.

- Approval of a new building supply warehouse for Carmel Builders Supply on Junipero between 3rd and 4th.

- Approval of a new office building for Hugh W. Comstock Associates on Torres between 5th and 6th.

It is expected that the parking lot would include stalls rented by the month (presumably to merchants and professional people) and the balance open to transients. The latter section will probably have parking meters. None of the times or rates have been worked out.

The tentative date for the bond issue election is October 17. The date will be formally set by the Council, which expects to act on the matter at its September meeting.

"Camille" will open on Friday night, September 12. Rhea Diveley is directing the famous French dramatization of the novel by Alexander Dumas fils. The role, which for over 100 years has starred such immortals as Eleanora Duse, Sarah Bernhardt, Mathilda Her-

TEENAGERS, KIWANIS AND LOCAL MUSICAL COMEDY
WRITING TEAM COMBINE TO STAGE 'THAT'S THE TICKET'
AUG. 28 - 31

Carmel's picturesque Forest Theater is brightly lighted these nights, and passersby can catch bits of melody sung by scores by young voices in this natural amphitheater, where final rehearsals of the original 'teenage musical, "That's The

PENNY STUEFLATEN, BILLIE BOLTON, and SALLY BERG listen in varying degrees of surprise and amazement, while Tough Guy Basil Allaire sounds off in a scene from the musical comedy, "That's the Ticket!" which will be produced on the Forest Theatre stage August 28, 29, 30, and 31. Proceeds of the production will be turned over to the Carmel Kiwanis Club for the use of the club's Children's Fund. --Steve Crouch photo.

"Ticket," are in session.

This 1952 follow-up of last year's hit show, "This Is It"--by the same authors and producers, Ric Masten, Don Adams, and Mike Monahan, is sponsored by Carmel Kiwanis for its Youth Fund. It hits the boards opening night, Thursday, August 28, for a four day run. Tickets are now on sale from any Kiwanis member; also at the Browse Around Music Shop and Leo Tanous real estate office.

The huge cast--eighty teenage chorus people, thirteen major and minor leads--is shaping up as a real production, under the astute direction of David Eldridge. Here are some highlights to watch for:

"Books"--a peppy song and dance number performed by the girls of the chorus, with clever lyrics and music by Ric Masten and Don Adams.

"Deck of Cards" and "Autumn," sung by tenor-baron Jack Washburn, singing star of radio and television, now stationed with Ft. Ord's much-praised special service unit. Washburn, a handsome young singer with a voice that spins the eyelashes of the cast's bobbysoxers, has several years of radio, TV, and band work backing him up. He starred in the "Light and Mellow" show with Armand Girard on NBC, with "Magic Mirror Review" on TV, and also with the Ruby Hunter show, as featured singer. Other jobs included night clubs and bands.

Lace, Ruth Velissaratos who portrays Mrs. Moorhead, and Barbara Norberg enacting Mary. Directed by Cole Weston and using an exclusively female cast, the play opens September 12 at the Forest Theater.

TEENAGERS (continued) including Ray Hackett's. He plays the crooked lawyer and gambler in this show.

"Book of Dreams"--probably the most captivating tune in the show, is given to well-known Carmel baritone Jimmy Griffin, who doubles as the show's choral director. It also becomes an effective ballet and finale number. Griffin plays the president of ivy-covered Bradford College.

"Twelve Is Not Too Young," a delightful song sung by Ruthy McElroy--who doesn't need (and so won't get) further introduction here. Recipient of the song is versatile Nancye Brown, nineteen-year-old who plays a 12-year-old and who has a cute song of her own with Jimmy Griffin titled "Mobsters Don't Eat Lobsters."

Millie Kimball, one of Carmel Valley's several contributions to the show (including the show's writer Mike Monahan, who doubles in a college boy lead), sings a lovely ballad called "Please Tell Me," as Adele, the daughter of the college president, and co-lead of Washburn.

Ruthy McElroy and Jimmy Griffin, sharing equally cast lead honors with the other couple, have a hilarious duet-dance called "I'll Support You"...and Ruth also is principal in a number called "Here's to Prohibition." Ruth plays the newspaper woman candidate for governor.

GEORGE YATES, Carmel's young mutual investment expert, is a Nebraskan turned Carmel light. With his attractive wife, Betty, he moved to Carmel in 1949, three years after ending his Army service.

Born and raised in Lincoln, George first came to the coast for college, taking a four year course in economics at Stanford. He joined a New York investment firm shortly after graduation and moved to its Boston branch just before entering the Army, in 1941. Serving with an armored division, variously under Patch, Patton and the 1st French Army, George saw much of Europe, winding up his service there with a stint of supervising a Riviera rest center which was established as a vacation area for American troops.

When the Army decided on a policy of non-fraternization in Germany, they concurrently took over the playground area surrounding Nice and Cannes, France. Here American servicemen could have two week luxury vacations for approximately $1. The Riviera hotels were all turned over for their use, together with all of the recreation facilities, tennis courts, golf links, etc. George, a major, was aide to the General whose pleasant domain this was.

It was on the Riviera that George renewed acquaintance with Betty Kohler, the present Mrs. Yates. Under the name of Betty Cole, she was a member of the USO Camp Show cast of "Kiss and Tell." They had first met in Bavaria. Betty, an Ithaca college grad, had studied drama both there and at the Pasadena Playhouse, acted in summer stock in the East, and was active in troop entertainment both in Europe and the Pacific Theater. They were married in 1946, shortly after Betty got back from a Far East tour. Their son, a "junior" whom they call Van, is a four year old charmer, who appeals to his mother considerably more than footlights apparently, since she's devoted all of her time to him since coming to Carmel, without even a side glance at dramatics.

George's mother, Mrs. Loise Yates, is the fourth Yates Carmelite, leaving only one member of the family outside of the enchanted Peninsula circle, George's brother who is the president of a Lincoln bank.

Happily ensconced in their new home, the Yates' happy family life centers largely around Van. Their tranquility was mildly disturbed this week when Van, after catching a trout, was most alarmed to find that the fish was headed, not for a jar of water as he'd supposed, but for the frying pan.

Back from a recent trip to Mexico, their first vacation since Van's birth, George and Betty pronounced that Carmel looked better than ever. To the large circle of friends they've acquired here, it was just as fine to have them back.

PEBBLE BEACH NOTES

Lending an international flavor to the Peninsula's social life this weekend was the visit of Madame K. C. Wu, wife of the Governor of Formosa. Madame Wu was here with her son-in-law and daughter, Dr. and Mrs. R. B. Yu; her younger daughter, Miss Edith Wu, and her son, Mr. H. K. Wu.

In their honor, Mr. James Lee of Carmel, formerly of Shanghai and Hongkong, and Mrs. Lee entertained the visitors and Colonel and Mrs. Allen Griffin at a Chinese buffet luncheon Saturday afternoon in the Lee home overlooking the ocean in Carmel.

Saturday night, Col. and Mrs. Allen Griffin were hosts at a dinner for Madame Wu. The Griffins and Governor and Mrs. Wu became friends during the time that Col. Griffin headed ECA activities in Formosa and Southeast Asia.

Dining with the Griffins Saturday evening were Madame Wu, Mr. and Mrs. James Lee, Mr. and Mrs. Harry C. Hunt, Mrs. Frances Elkins, Mr. and Mrs. William Brady of New York, Mr. and Mrs. Brayton Wilbur of San Francisco, Mr. Gardner

WE PAY HIGHER PRICES TOO

Do you remember when you could drive your car to market and load the back seat with groceries, vegetables, and meat for a few bucks? Today when you walk out of a store with just a bagful of stuff you're lucky if you've spent less than five dollars.

Well, it's the same with us. When we go to market for cast iron pipe we have to pay more than twice as much as we did a dozen years ago. And so it is with nearly everything we buy—meters, valves, copper pipe, carbon paper, pencils, typewriters, picks and shovels, ditch-digging machinery, trucks—and so on down the list. Wages? They're up too. And taxes? We hate to mention them, their rise has been so astronomical.

Naturally the higher prices we have to pay for things should be offset by higher rates. It's merely a matter of simple arithmetic, and anyone who goes to market today will understand what we mean.

Funnyboner of the Week: Mrs. Leon Shappell not so long ago had as houseguest a very prim little old lady friend of the family. Mrs. S., remembering what an immaculate housekeeper the little lady was, and wishing to have everything exactly so, had a thorough washing of all household linens and sent all blankets her guest was to use to the cleaners. The weather, when the lady arrived, was too chilly for the elderly bones, so, the first night, Mrs. Shappell offered another blanket for the bed. In the presence of her distinguished guest, she unwrapped the final bundle from the cleaners enclosing the blankets. On top, of course, was a blanket bearing the information in large letters, "STOLEN FROM MINNESOTA STATE REFORMATORY FOR WOMEN"... Too bad to anticlimax the story with the notation that the wrong bundle had been returned, but such was the case...

The Valley was saddened this week by the death of one of its most popular and active young matrons, Augustine ("Auggie") Weber... in respect for whom most of the local business houses closed their doors part of last Monday so owners and employees could attend services...

Fall "Cotton Ball" dance sponsored by the Tularcitos Mothers' Club offers a bale of fun this Sat. nite., Aug. 23, 9:30 p.m., at the Carmel Valley Inn... Bill Pierce's orchestra will doodley-doo... proceeds as usual go toward improvement of the school grounds and other worthwhile school projects...

Valley Spec's: New president of the small but active La Rancheria Property Owners Assn. is Joe Schoeninger; v.p. is Kenneth Hahler... Community Chapel's Youth Fellowship Quintet of the famed Fellowship Church in S.F... in a program of sacred music, on Sept. 11, 8 p.m... at the Chapel... no admission except for voluntary offering at end of program... Stained glass windows for the Community Chapel have been designed by professional designer Leo Cartwright, now a C.V. resident...

Can just about say the Carmel Valley has everything--and everybody... Persons wishing to buy a window for the church as a memorial, should contact (Continued on Page 14)

Gas and electricity are cheap in California!

An impressive civic auditorium is the center of community life in San Jose

P. G. and E. home rates are far below U.S. average!

The cost of living has nearly doubled since 1940, but P. G. and E. domestic rates are actually lower than they were then! Nothing else you buy costs so little -- does so much. Let

P. G. and E.'s bargain gas and electricity do more of your work, bring you more of life's comforts.

Take SAN JOSE for example:

Typical residential gas and electric bill

In San Jose . . . $8.69

In all U.S. cities of similar size* . . . $18.02

* Average for the 20 U.S. cities outside California between 85,000 and 100,000 population. Based on a typical use of 100 kilowatt hours and 100 therms of gas per month.

song and dance routine called "That Charleston Gal is Here Again," and is prominent in most of the other dance numbers as the co-ed lead.

"Queen of Autumn" is a very pretty nostalgic number, such as college coeds love to harmonize to, which works into an excellent solo for the mellow voice of baritone Holt Wood, backed by the men of the cast.

A frequently reappearing highspot of the entire show will be the antics of mobsters "Emil Schultz" and "Fingers Giribaldi"--Ric Masten and Basil Allaire, whose song, "Block Sweaters," and their efforts to get into college, are wonderfully funny. Three other very comic figures are "Freddy," the obnoxious student body prexy, played by Dominic DiMare (co-star of MPC's "Taming of the Shrew"); "Kelly," the absent-minded press photographer played by Kenn Smith; and Prof. Deus X. Machina, played by George McMennamin. Jim Hare and Billie Bolton, stars also of "Taming of the Shrew," have speaking and singing parts.

Tickets for "That's The Ticket" are $1.50. Remembering last year's crowds, it will probably be good advice to shop early.

GARDENING FOR HEALTH AND HAPPINESS

By CHARLES W. DELANEY

Now is a splendid time to take a little holiday from our garden routine and visit nurseries or attractive gardens to become acquainted with new plants for our own gardens. The shrubs that bloom in summer are exhibiting their best appearance at this season. It is not a question of strangeness or rarity, but how we like the plants we see, or where we could use them to advantage in our gardens. Again it is the old thesis of planting so that our garden will be pleasing and beautiful. We can describe only a few from among the hundreds of plants that are available:

HYDRANGEA

Hydrangeas are among the best summer blooming shrubs, and if we have a mild winter they will bloom for a long time. There are many varieties, from pure white through pink, to deep coral. Some grow 6 feet high, others are low-growing. They thrive best in partial shade or morning sun; they like to snuggle against a house or in a fence corner. The hybrids require more shade. The blossoms vary in size--the hortensis is very large, while some of the hybrids are smaller, in deeper colors.

The flowers can be converted into blue (the lighter shades) and darker blue depends upon the color of the natural flower. The blue color comes from iron in the soil which is released by adding aluminum sulphate (common alum), ½ pound to each square yard every year or two. Iron sulphate or Ironstone may be used in the same proportions.

When purchasing plants it is best to select a plant in a 5-gallon container. It will develop more rapidly and will be easier to grow. Hydrangeas like a fairly fertile sandy soil and lots of water.

They are pest-resistant, but occasionally develop a yellowing of the leaves called Chlorosis--a kind of anemia. If the plant is small it may be dug up; wash off the roots, and replant into rich soil; or add a handful of Epsom salts to a sprinkling can filled with water and sprinkle the entire bush, soaking the ground thoroughly. When the new leaves appear, they will be nice and green.

Azaleas, camellias, and rhododendrons sometimes develop this chlorosis. Sprinkle the soil with alum or iron sulphate, one ounce to two gallons of water.

Hydrangeas grow well in tubs or boxes--a monthly feeding of a good commercial fertilizer is needed for tub culture.

PLEROMA OR GLORY BUSH

If you can use a purple flower in your garden, this shrub is perfect. The foliage is beautiful, velvety green with an occasional red leaf. It grows 6 feet tall and blooms better if it is cut back slightly. The branches after blooming should be cut back about ¼ of their length. It is very fine as a specimen plant in a sunny part of the garden.

ESCALLONIA MONTEVIDEENSIS

This shrub develops round-headed blossoms and all summer they attract herds of butterflies. If pruned back the same as pleroma, it will be as pretty as the old-fashioned lilac.

LEMON VERBENA

This small tree has willow-like leaves and at this season the flowers cover the entire tree--a light blue to lilac in color. The leaves when rubbed give off a lemon odor which is very pleasant. The trunk of the tree is very unusual in its irregular markings.

There are hundreds of plants from which to choose; as a matter of fact, there are over 12,000 species. It is always wise to select from your nursery the ones that thrive in this area. Some require heat, others do not need much water. The best person to consult is your nurseryman.

Miss Winona Love, Mrs. Vera Shephard, and Mr. Francis H. I. Brown.

The Charles Fays of San Francisco spent the weekend as Mr. Morse's house guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Phleger were weekend visitors in Pebble Beach. Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Dunne and Betsy spent the weekend at the Cypress Point Club in Pebble Beach. Mrs. Donald Colvin and Mrs. Fred Glauser, both of San Francisco, have just terminated a visit at Del Monte Lodge. Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Fleishhacker and son Alan are currently guests at Del Monte Lodge for a fortnight's vacation.

GOLDEN BOUGH PLAYHOUSE TO OPEN SOON

AS OPENING of the rebuilt Golden Bough Playhouse approaches, Colin Kuster, son of Director Ted Kuster, prepares to light once again THE golden bough that graced the facade of the theater which burned in 1949. The tree was spared from the flames and the golden bough, symbolizing the classic legend from which the theater originally took its name, will soon gleam again as a familiar Village landmark. -- Arthur McEwen photo.
